

Great Texas Balloon Race (GTBR) Weather Sheet – Sunday, 14 June 2026

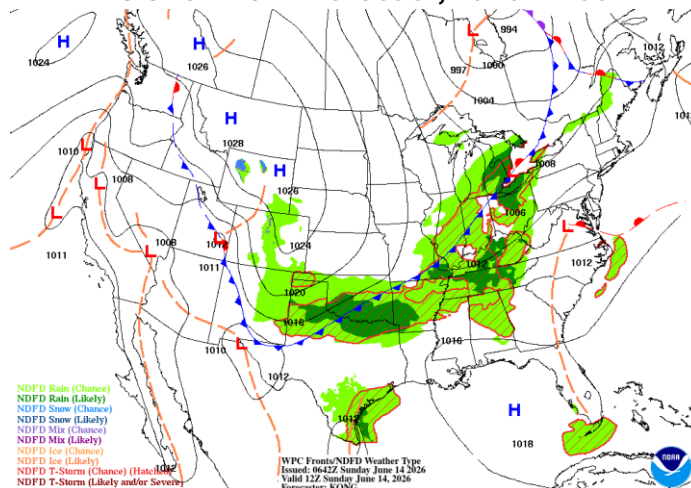

General Weather Discussion

- Broad high pressure from Mexico through the Gulf states will produce fair weather early this morning, storm track in OK will makes it way to GTBR by 10-11 AM CDT this morning
- SCT low clouds and thin BKN high clouds will thicken up throughout morning
- Prefrontal weather (rain showers) along outflow boundary soon after we end this morning; thunderstorms to follow in the afternoon
- Surface winds from the South will compete with the outflow from the North yielding acceptable winds this morning
- Still hot and humid through early afternoon since actual front later today
- Surface Winds: 200/4-8 knots becoming 240 end of flight window; SCT clouds 2500' thickening with time; Min QNH: 29.94 inHg

Longview (KGGG) METAR Observation

KGGG 140853Z AUTO 20006KT 10SM FEW075 SCT100
26/23 A2996 RMK AO2 SLP138 T02560233 51014

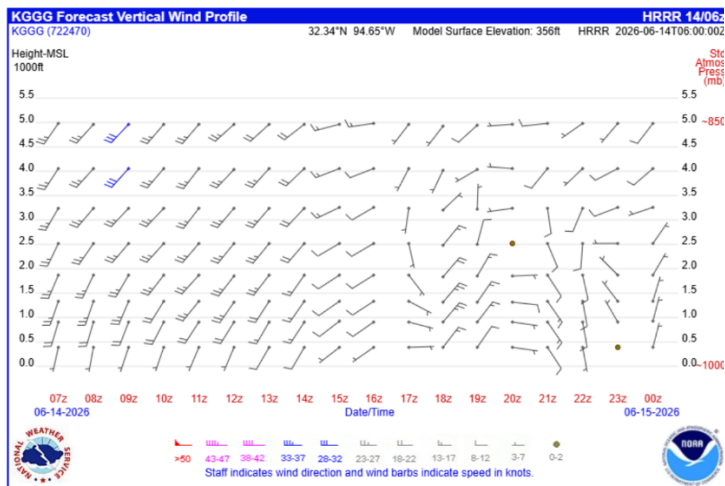

NWS Short-Term Forecast, Valid: 1200Z

Longview Terminal Aerodrome Forecasts (TAF)

KGGG 140528Z 1406/1506 18007KT P6SM SKC
FM141200 21005KT P6SM BKN100
FM141600 23007KT P6SM VCTS BKN025CB OVC100
FM141800 25008KT P6SM BKN040 BKN120 BKN250
FM150000 VRB03KT P6SM VCTS BKN050CB OVC250

HRRR Wind Profile Time Series for KGGG

Interpolated HRRR Wind Profile Valid: 1200Z

Altitude (feet AGL)	Wind Direction/Speed (knots)
0	208@10
1000	217@24
2000	218@27
3000	219@26
4000	224@24
5000	230@20
6000	238@17
7000	244@16
8000	247@15
9000	249@14
10000	250@13